

Motivation and expectations of preservice student teachers specialising in mathematics at two primary teachers colleges in Zimbabwe

Chabongora Sister Bernadette

Chauraya Million

Mhlolo Mike

Abstract

This study examined the motivations and expectations of preservice student teachers specialising in Mathematics at two government primary teachers colleges in Zimbabwe . It was motivated by the observation that most preservice teachers voluntarily opted for mathematics as their subject area of specialisation at enrolment, but a significant number of them failed in this area at the end of the programme.....